

Undead Steelworker

aka Hammersmith

Description

*These brutish characters may have once worked for the Iron King in the construction of the many weapons and armors that he required, but now they are as Hollowed as the Laborers who slave away in the mines. There is a difference, however: Strength. The Steelworkers have huge hammers whereas the common laborers merely flail about with their arms.*¹

Location

Harvest Valley

There is only one of these in Harvest Valley and he is directly outside of Earthen Peak guarding one of the entrances and the path to the Heirs of the Sun covenant statue.

Earthen Peak

There are few of them before Covetous Demon boss fight and one after.

Bonfire Intensity	Health	Souls
1	560	400
2	1,065	800
8	2,032	1,600

Resistance

- Very High Magic Resistance
- Medium Fire, Lightning and Dark Resistance

Drops

- Titanite Shard
- Old Mundane Stone - rare
- Small Smooth & Silky Stone - rare

Strategy

These are quite easy to take out as long as you don't get ambushed by a group, and even then with the speed of their attacks they shouldn't be too tough to handle.

They will sometimes poison themselves by breaking the poison vessels in the area just before Earthen Peak.

Beware of the shockwave their groundhitting attacks create. If you get a feeling for the timing, try to roll through the shockwave to attack

Footnotes 1. Dark Souls II Collector's Edition Guide description

Revision #1

Created 17 December 2024 07:40:21 by jade

Updated 17 December 2024 07:40:21 by jade