Notes

- Do not pull the lever under the main staircase or Royal Sorcerer Navlaan's questline becomes unavailable.
- Royal Sorcerer Navlaan will invade near the fog door to Guardian Dragon if you pulled the lever.
- At Bonfire Intensity 2+, a Painting Guardian Phantom can be found behind one of the paintings in the hallway.
- Dark Soul II: Scholar of the First Sin:
  - To release the creatures in the high cages, you'll need to enter the Locked Laboratory and pull the cage lever.
  - In order to access the Locked Laboratory, you'll need to light all four sconces scattered across the zone, defeat all four resulting Forlorn invaders, and return to the main hall with the dragon skeleton. The dragon skeleton will animate and lunge forward, potentially destroying the Basilisk cart and possibly killing you if you're in the way. The top half of the dragon skeleton will then disappear, and Aldia Key will automatically be added to your inventory.
- You'll encounter carts which are apparently being shaken by what's contained within. There's two in the entryway and two in the back hallway. The ones in the back hallway can be smashed open by Ogres, revealing respawning Basilisks. The one near the entry stairs can be smashed by the animated dragon skeleton as it lunges, revealing a Basilisk. The other very first entryway cart may not seem like it can be broken open, but If you manage to drag the entry stair ogre over to it and have it smash it, you'll find that this cart is actually empty - the developers may not have anticipated anyone opening it.
